

Steven Williams is a founding shareholder and is the managing shareholder of McDole Williams, a Dallas based commercial litigation and intellectual property litigation boutique trial law firm. Steve started out his practice representing property owners in land condemnation cases. He began representing clients in patent infringement cases as a young lawyer at McKool Smith. He now represents both defendants and patent owners in patent infringement cases, in cases ranging from pharmaceuticals, telecom, consumer electronics, power converters, video systems, oil and gas service equipment, to software cases. Over his career, Steve has helped his clients realize over $100 million in recoveries.